Mainframe id for learning

When choosing a Mainframe id for learning, it is important to consider your specific needs and goals. here is the following point that should be consider before:

1) For example, if you are a student or beginner, you will want to choose a provider that offers a learning environment with access to training resources and support.

2) If you are a professional, you may want to choose a provider that offers more advanced services, such as access to production-grade mainframe environments.