

Bridesmaid dress selection: recommend 5 colors

Although the bridesmaid is the supporting role of the wedding, how to perfectly set off the bride who is the protagonist of the wedding, the corners of the eyebrows and brows need to be carefully considered. The selection of bridesmaid dresses is the key to being a good green leaf. Here are some recommended directions for choosing bridesmaid dresses. Taking taboos, colors and styles as references, let's find out the most beautiful dresses for bridesmaids!

What are the key points for choosing bridesmaid dresses?

1. Length selection of bridesmaid dress

Most people prefer long dresses because long dresses give people a sense of elegance and dignity, such as burgundy matron of honor dresses. On the contrary, the short skirt will be more lively, with a little sweet breath of a young girl. However, since the bridesmaids will actually be busy in the wedding, sometimes they also need to help the bride to lift the skirt, so the long dress should not be too long, so that it is convenient to move and work.

2. Uniform style

Generally speaking, few people will choose different colors and different models, because it is too easy to make the whole look messy, so it is not recommended to do this. The advantage of the same color and the same style is that it can show a neat integration, and you only need to find a style that everyone is satisfied with. If you want to save trouble, the same color and the same style are a good choice. Different models of the same color combine the advantages of the above two. It can not only show consistency in color, but also can match the different figures of bridesmaids with individual differences. Usually, changes are made at the neckline and waist, so that the bridesmaid can act as green leaves. At the same time, it can also show its own beauty.

3. Matching of accessories

In addition to the uniform style of the dress, the bridesmaid's shoes should also be uniform. It may be difficult to get bridesmaids to wear the same shoes, but try to be consistent in appearance and color. If there are many styles of bridesmaid dresses, you can also use uniform belts, corollas, wrist flowers and other accessories to make the bridesmaid's overall dress style more consistent.

4. Discuss with bridesmaids

When trying on the wedding dress, invite the bridesmaid to choose the bridesmaid's clothes together, and it is best to try it on directly. Letting the bridesmaids choose their own bridesmaid dress can not only increase the fun of trying on the wedding dress, but also let the bridesmaid choose the most comfortable material and the most suitable style for their body shape. If you want to fine-tune the details and tailoring, you can also immediately respond to the bridal shop.

5. Bridesmaid dress colors

Generally speaking, you will choose a color that is similar to the bridal dress, or a color that matches the overall wedding style. The color selection will be softer and low-saturation. It can be matched with the bridal dress color system, but it is mainly not to steal the bride's style. The following is also sorted out the more common bridesmaid dress colors recommended for your reference!

Recommended 5 colors for bridesmaid dress

When choosing bridesmaid dresses, it is recommended to choose dresses with low chroma and lightness. After all, the bridesmaids are lined up. If the dresses are too eye-catching, it is easy for the bride to be overwhelmed. In the choice of color system, you can use similar colors of the bride's dress to make the overall look harmonious, or you can choose a color that can set off the bride's dress. The most important thing is that regardless of the color system of the bridesmaid's dress, the bride must be The most dazzling one among them.

Pink

The tender pink sequin bridesmaid dress presents the sweet happiness of the wedding. Compared with other colors, it is more cheerful and energetic. If you like a more mature style, you can choose lotus root pink, nude pink or bean paste, which is elegant and not Loss of romance, and pink can also bring out the skin of Asians, it is a very safe choice for bridesmaid dresses.

Blue

Blue and blue-green bridesmaid dresses are suitable for fresh wedding styles, especially for weddings held outdoors, full of natural breath and vigor. Either light blue or dark blue is suitable. The light blue is pure and generous, and the dark blue is low-key and dignified. However, when choosing a dark blue bridesmaid dress, pay attention to the color not too dark to be close to black to avoid contraindications.

Beige

The choice of beige for bridesmaid dress can be elegant and feminine, and it can show a harmonious overall feeling when the bride wears white gauze, and when the bride changes to another color dress, it can also set off the bride appropriately. I don't know how to choose the bridesmaid dress. At the time, I highly recommend the all-match beige and apricot colors.

Gray

A mature and low-key wedding style is the most suitable for choosing a gray bridesmaid dress. With a drape design, it perfectly interprets classic elegance. If you think the gray is a little too dull, you can choose a gray with a little color, such as Morandi.

Purple

The purple bridesmaid dresses give people a mysterious and expensive impression, especially the dark purple bridesmaid dresses are very suitable for Asians' yellow complexion. However, avoid choosing too saturated and bright purple, which can easily overshadow the bride's elegance and lightness. Violet can properly present an elegant temperament.

In addition to the above directions when choosing a bridesmaid dress, remember to discuss with the bride and groom the wedding style they want to present and whether to match it with the best man's dress.
