

Busting Window Cleaning Myths: Rain Makes Your Home Windows Dirty

There is a common misconception that rain is to blame for dirty windows. Homeowners often think that when it rains, their windows will become covered in dirt, dust, and other debris. This can lead to hesitation when scheduling a window cleaning service, as they may be put off by the idea that their freshly cleaned windows will quickly become dirty again from the rain.

However, it's important to separate fact from fiction and set the record straight. In this article, we will dispel the myth and explain why rain alone does not make your home windows dirty.
