Traditional pictures have usually been regarded as fragile. here Whilst many still enjoy the challenges and achievements of conventional pictures, they nonetheless back again them up in the digital world. Why? Because the chemicals utilized on photographic paper are extremely delicate to sunlight and air. Acid in hot, humid air can destabilise the colour dyes in pictures and make them fade much more quickly. Mild has a comparable impact and will break down the dyes in the paper, causing the pictures to fade. Humidity can also trigger the paper to warp and develop brittle. While the chemicals used in black and white pictures are much more stable, if left in these conditions for lengthy sufficient, they will also succumb.
