

PRIVACY POLICY

The privacy policy of Normandie Law firm sets out how we use and protect information that is provided to by via our online website. Any and all information you provide us through our website will be used according to the terms and conditions delineated within this privacy policy. The Normandie Law Firm website uses cookie and other similar technology to provide you with the best website experience, as well as to track visitor behavior for marketing and research purposes.

The information that we collect includes, but is not limited to:

Your IP address

Your browser type (example: Firefox or Chrome)

The time that you visited our website

How long you stayed

What pages you visited

This information is shared with third parties for marketing and research purposes.

Our live chat feature is provided by a third party. Any information that you provide through live chat is seen by a third party.

The specific information we collect during our free consultation pertains only to your basic information and facts pertaining to your case. This can include

- Your full name – first and last name
- Your phone number
- Your email address
- And facts pertaining to your case – how it happened, where it took place, the date of the accident and the specific types of injuries suffered.

If you have any further questions please feel free to contact us.