

Serverless Application Development

The term Serverless suggests that servers are not used in the system, but that's not the case. Serverless describes an Application Development and deployment approach in which no servers are directly involved in the process.

