

How to Clean Pure Silver Jewellery So It Shines?

Silver jewellery looks pretty on most outfits, but we dread taking it out of the jewellery box. Why? Because it gets tarnished very quickly. It develops a dark grey/black-coloured layer, which doesn't come off it. You need to clean pure silver jewellery so it shines.

Professional jewellery cleaners charge a lot for simple silverware cleaning procedures. You would rather do it yourself at home. But how to clean a silver Bridal jewellery set so it shines? There are simple methods that can be carried out using items commonly available in a household.

In this article, we discuss some of these silver jewellery cleaning methods in detail. Continue reading!.

Different Ways to Clean Pure Silver Jewellery

Discussed below are different methods to clean pure silver jewellery so it will shine.

1. Clean with a Baking Soda Paste

If you are wondering how to clean silver jewellery at home, this is one of the most effective methods.

Materials Required:

- Baking soda
- Tap water
- A large bowl
- A spoon
- Soft towel/napkin

Cleaning Instructions:

Step 1: In a large bowl, add 4 spoons of baking soda and 2 spoons of water.

Step 2: Mix them together to form a thick paste.

(Adjust quantity as per your requirement. Maintain a 2:1 ratio of baking soda and water)

Step 3: Apply this thick paste to your silver items and let it dry completely.

Step 4: Once dried, rinse the paste with water and dry the items with a soft towel.

2. Use a Silver Polishing Cloth

You can buy a ready-made silver polishing cloth for cleaning your silver chains. These clothes are infused with polishing cream, so there's no need to use any other cleaning materials.

Materials Required:

- Silver polishing cloth

Cleaning Instructions:

Hold your silver chain in between the polishing cloth and scrub back and forth. Work on one small section at a time. Once a section is completely shining, move on to the next section of the chain.

3. Use a Silver Polishing Cream

Instead of making a homemade paste with baking soda, you can buy a ready-made polishing cream from the store.

Materials Required:

- Polishing cream
- A sponge/soft cloth
- A towel
- Warm water

Cleaning Instructions:

Step 1: Wash all your silver jewellery with warm water.

Step 2: Apply the polishing cream to your jewellery with the provided sponge or a soft cloth.

(Dampen the sponge before using if specified in the product instructions.)

Step 3: Rub each part until the tarnish disappears.

Step 4: When done, wash the items with warm water.

Step 5: Dry them with a soft towel.

Tips for preserving silver jewellery

We all have seen our silver jewellery change colour over time. Bringing it back to its original colour is not a tough task. But every time you polish it, some amount of silver gets removed. In the long run, this decreases the quality of your items.

So here are some tips to prevent silver from getting tarnished in the first place.

1. Clean your silver items with warm water and soap as soon as you are done using them. Don't forget to pat dry with a soft cloth.
2. Don't use rubber gloves while washing silverware, as they cause corrosion of silver.
3. Never put your silver items in stainless steel utensils because the steel can scratch your jewellery.
4. Store your silver jewellery in a separate pouch from your other items. If possible, use acid-free paper to wrap each piece of jewellery separately.

The instructions are pretty simple to follow and all the requirement items are easily available. All you have to do is gather them and get going. Don't delay, clean your silverware today!
