According to End Users, a sizable amount of the global demand for glass packaging comes from the beverage industry. Since governments no longer view the spirits industry as essential, demand for it has drastically decreased as a result of the Covid-19 epidemic. Furthermore, a significant portion of the market is anticipated to be held by the Milk sub-segment. Glass bottles are gradually replacing plastic ones in the global dairy industry. The need for environmentally friendly milk from consumers led many small dairy sector participants to decide to sell their products in reusable bottles. The need for glass bottles in the milk industry has grown across Europe in comparison to other sectors.
