For those who enjoy Mexican cuisine, Houston and the surrounding areas offer a refuge, whether they are looking for genuine enchiladas, sizzling fajitas, or creative fusion meals. This is a list of some of the greatest places to savor Mexican cuisine close to Houston.

Traditional Favorites of Tex-Mex

The Houston area is dominated by Tex-Mex classics, and a number of eateries are excellent at providing these popular dishes. Seek out restaurants that provide the classic chili con queso, gooey cheese enchiladas, and tender, smokey meat fajitas. Well-known restaurants like Lupe Tortilla and BlueAgaveCantina serve classic Tex-Mex fare with unmatched flair and flavor.

Real Mexican Food

Houston offers a range of taquerias and family-run eateries that perfectly encapsulate Mexico's culinary diversity for those in search of authentic Mexican fare. Hugo's, a classy restaurant in the Montrose neighborhood, offers traditional fare including cochinita pibil and mole poblano. El Tiempo Cantina, on the other hand, has a menu that balances contemporary innovation with authenticity.

Suburban Hidden Treasures

Discover hidden jewels where authentic Mexican flavors come to life when you venture just outside of Houston. Family-run businesses that prioritize using fresh products and handcrafted recipes may be found in towns like Sugar Land, Pearland, and Katy. For those who want to venture out into the suburbs, two notable options are Las Palomas Mexican Grill in Sugar Land and La Balance Café in Katy.

Tortas, Tacos, and Other Foods

Houston's food trucks and informal taquerias are a must-see for taco enthusiasts. Al pastor, barbacoa, and carnitas tacos are the specialty of restaurants like Tacos Tierra Caliente and La Calle Tacos. Remember to sample tortas, which are Mexican sandwiches that are served at many local restaurants and are full of flavorful and substantial ingredients.
