Exposing the grift. Wiz and Boomstick content creators lied Solaris isn't multiuniversal in the second Mario vs Sonic Death Battle rematch, just to have Mario win and remember they included even Hyper Sonic with the super emeralds a stronger form that should have overpowered Mario easily, as it makes Hyper Sonic high multiuniversal level from getting powered by the super emeralds. Wiz and Boomstick lied by omission by deliberately not showing the cutscene game clip of Mephiles the Dark and Iblis absorbing the seven chaos emeralds energy to become Solaris in the final story after Mephiles killed Sonic the Hedgehog. My question is why didn't they bring up about the chaos emeralds being multiuniversal in Bowser vs Eggman match up when Sage was shown using the chaos emeralds to power the final egg blaster. Easy knowing that Wiz and Boomstick are fence riding money revenue seeking grifters to please the mario fanbase when it suits them.

Here Wiz and Boomstick change their analysis perspective the chaos emeralds are multiuniversal in Metal Sonic and Perfect Cell.

Both Wiz and Boomstick are fence riding frauds and grifters just like their terrible analysis in Omniman vs Bardock where they are relying on Invincible's overwhelming popularity as the darkhorse win to increase their money revenue. They are fake fans when it comes to respecting fiction source material.

Wiz and Boomstick are fake sonic fans who have no real love for the content. They are Ian Flynn shills to the point they invite him on to their death battle podcast and see him as helpful advice as word of god. Death Battle community is filled with disgusting positive feedback loop community. Even the death battle fanfiction wikia community is awful keeping awfully made match up results instead of marking them away as loses that don't count, they're as bad as the deadliest fiction wiki writers who had Sonic the Hedgehog lose to Captain Falcon, even allowing spite votes against Sonic to count.
