What to Look for Before Applying to an IPO

With so many IPOs launching, choosing the right one can feel overwhelming. Here are five simple factors to consider:

1. Company Fundamentals

Understand the company's business model. Is it profitable or growing fast?

2. Use of IPO Funds

Check where the raised capital will go—debt repayment, expansion, R&D, etc.

3. Valuation & Price Band

Is the IPO fairly valued compared to similar companies in the sector?

4. Market Sentiment

Bullish markets often help IPOs list at a premium. Keep an eye on broader indices like Nifty and Sensex.

5. Promoter Reputation

A strong, experienced management team adds confidence to the company's long-term performance.
