

What Is Accounts Payable And Why Is it Important For Your Business?

Accounts payable (AP) refers to the money a business owes its suppliers for goods or services received. It's a crucial part of managing cash flow and maintaining healthy vendor relationships. Efficient accounting payable processes ensure timely payments, help avoid penalties, improve financial accuracy, and support business growth by keeping operations running smoothly and vendors satisfied.