

How to Spot Fake or Inflated Bids in an Auction?

Auctions are a great way to buy and sell items at fair market value, but they can sometimes be affected by dishonest bidding practices. Fake or inflated bids, often known as shill bidding, can artificially raise prices and manipulate the auction process. Whether you're participating in live auctions or online auctions in Ohio, understanding how to spot these tactics can help you avoid overpaying.

How to Spot Fake or Inflated Bids in an Auction?

Auctions are a great way to buy and sell items at fair market value, but they can sometimes be affected by dishonest bidding practices. Fake or inflated bids, often known as "shill bidding," can artificially raise prices and manipulate the auction process.

Whether you're participating in live auctions or online auctions in Ohio, understanding how to spot these tactics can help you avoid overpaying.

- Sudden and Unusual Bidding Patterns
- A Bidder Who Withdraws Frequently
- Bidders with No Purchase History
- Seller and Bidder Connection
- Unreasonable Price Jumps
- Unusually Fast Bidding

