Common Causes of Truck Accidents

Truck accidents often occur due to:

- Driver Fatigue – Exhausted drivers have slower reaction times and impaired judgment.
- Distracted Driving – Using a phone, eating, or adjusting the GPS while driving can cause crashes.
- Speeding & Reckless Driving – Large trucks require longer stopping distances, making speeding dangerous.
- Poor Maintenance – Brake failures, tire blowouts, or mechanical defects can lead to accidents.
- Improper Cargo Loading – Overloaded or unbalanced trucks can roll over or jackknife.

Who Can Be Held Liable?

Unlike standard car accidents, truck accident liability can involve multiple parties, including:

- The truck driver
- The trucking company
- Vehicle or parts manufacturers
- Cargo loading companies
- Maintenance providers

Babaian's Truck Accident Attorney will thoroughly investigate your case to determine who is responsible and ensure they are held accountable.
