

The Get-Over-It Globes

Dr. Anguó Limpah, an advocate for natural beauty, has designed a series of cranial globes that, when worn, help reveal to a patient what he or she will look like in advance of getting a permanent plastic surgery procedure. People call them the "Get Over It" globes. Candidates, who want to alter their appearance, wear these head contraptions, day and night, for 13 weeks before being allowed access to surgery. As you can guess most are so horrified by this globe experience, they invariably cancel all cosmetic surgeries.
