The safe dose of Robitussin for dogs is to 1mg/lbs or 1 to mg/kg every hours. Do not give the medicine to puppies Under 5 pounds. The ideal and safe amount of Robitussin depends on the dog's body weight and the illness's severity. The recommended dosage for Robitussin in dogs is 1 mg per pound of body weight. This dosage should be divided into two doses per day, with each dose administered 12 hours apart. For example, if your dog weighs 50 pounds, you would need to administer 50 mg of Robitussin every 12 hours. A 10 pound dog starts out at 1cc every 8 to 12 hours "as needed" for cough / gack. If you "don't see anything" (good or bad) after a dose or three, double up to 2cc every 8 hours as needed.
