Downloaded from: justpaste.it/l4nfw

Adrien Matray - A Harvard Economist

Adrien Matray, a Harvard economist, focuses on finance's influence on economic inequality and entrepreneurship. His work appears in premier journals, contributing to discussions on financial inclusion and policy reform. He is a Ph.D. graduate from HEC Paris and previously taught at Stanford, actively reshaping financial education to better serve diverse communities. Matray is highly esteemed in research communities and among his colleagues.