

Our Own Shame

Most of us do not realize how we show our prejudices and guilt to others. We do. Find the home site of author Bill Allin at <http://billallin.com>

Most of us do not realize how we show our prejudices and guilt to others. We do. Find the home site of author Bill Allin at <http://billallin.com>

Our Own Shame

The books that the world calls immoral are books that show the world its own shame.

- Oscar Wilde, writer (1854-1900)

This would apply today to television and movies as well.

Instead of doing what we must to see that our countrymen avoid behaviours we consider shameful, we complain about the books, movies and television programs that show everyone who and what we really are.

We complain about what is wrong, but we don't change our system so that we teach what we believe is right and good.

Changing our education systems would be easy, literally as easy as the stroke of a pen. We have lots of good people in every community that live the kinds of lives we consider ideal in a moral sense. They are the source for new curriculum material for schools.

And it's cheap because teachers would not need new books, AV materials or computers to teach it. Teachers already know this stuff. They only need the authorization to teach it. All teachers would need is material provided in a curriculum guide.

Bill Allin is the author of Turning It Around: Causes and Cures for Today's Epidemic Social Problems, a guidebook for teachers and parents who want to enact change in their education systems to address problems that run rampant in their communities and even in their homes.

Learn more at <http://billallin.com>