5 Tips to Repair a Water Leakage Pipe Till the Plumber Comes

As a temporary solution for your broken pipe, do the following steps.

To stop the supply of the relevant water, close the valve.

If you see a water line leak, close the water supply valve. If you're not sure where the water supply valve is for a particular line, you can turn off the main valve for your home. To drain any remaining water, open the faucet that is most near the source of the leak.

Completely dry the pipe.

After turning off the water supply valve, wipe down the wet surface and pipe with a clean towel because a patch won't stick well there. Sweep the floor, tidy the space, and dry any appliances and furnishings that are close by. In addition to preparing the region for the emergency plumber's repair, you may stop more damage.

Fix the joints.

If your pipe is dripping, just grab a flexible wrench and tighten the closest joints. If they are already snug, it's fine; if not, extending them can produce a better seal, allowing your temporary repair to last until the expert plumber shows up.

repair the pipe

You can use materials you already have at home to temporarily fix a broken pipe while you wait for the professional plumber to come. Like, epoxy putty is simple to use in this location. Mix it in your hands, then push it into and around the pipe opening. If you can't find any pipe clamps or glue putty, use duct tape.

Getting ready the pipe for repair

The surface needs to be smooth in order for the patch to adhere to the fractured pipe. Close the hole with some sandpaper or a metal file, and please clear the area of any visible dust. You may always get help from a group of plumbers in Dubai called Just Care to repair issues
