

When I was young it was mostly garage and yard sales where I played merchant but because my family was in the flea market business that is where my home base would be. Graduating to larger markets, and working for years in the flea markets of Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana, around 2001 I took a needed break from local markets and focused on eBay and other sites. Being a musician and songwriter I started selling digital music files on sites that offered the service.

Around the same time, I started to teach myself DIY web design in which I created websites for the intent of advertising my songwriting. It was my websites that brought on the desire to learn about domain names and eventually start to buy and sell them. Today I have several web stores where domains can be bought with a safe, secure and easy shopping cart checkout.

OGM Domains controls a collection of premium one, two and three words brandable and keyword .COM future business and blog names. Shop premium domains for sale that are available, affordable and valuable to potential investors and businesses both large and small alike. Shop and buy domains which are simple to say, spell and recall in turn getting better ranking with world web search engines.
