

Frightening moments when a car crashed into a school bus

A new video released by the Albuquerque Police Department sheds light on the in New Mexico in February.

Watch Video Here: <https://sbfast.com/d/8cgiwnn2cdcc.html>

The driver of the Ford Mustang that crashed into the bus was allegedly racing another Ford Mustang, according to police. One witness estimated that the cars hit speeds of 110 miles per hour; the posted speed limit for the area of the crash is 40 miles per hour.

The recently-released video analyzed by NPR shows the terrifying impact of the Feb. 23 crash from inside the school bus. About 23 children were riding the bus at the time of the incident.

The video shows that, at one moment, the young children were talking and laughing. Then a child lets out a scream and the bus pitches to one side, throwing the kids across the bus and on top of one another.

Seven children were transported to area hospitals following the crash, the police said.

The driver that crashed into the bus, Mario Perez, was transported to the University of New Mexico Hospital for a broken femur, according to police.